Make a Difference!

Consider a Career in CORRECTIONAL NURSING

Today's Correctional Nurse

A Correctional Nurse has the opportunity to make a significant impact on an individual and a community.

By working with an underserved population, Correctional Nurses are a critical link to identify health care needs of the individual inmate and promote treatment. The expertise and attitude of Correctional Nurses can make the difference it takes to promote quality health care standards and liaison with community support services.

Adult Correction has a varied population of 38,000+ inmates: male/ female, youth (18+) / geriatrics (60+) with medical and mental health needs, requiring a range of care from acute, long term and outpatient services. We are located in facilities statewide with varied medical missions.

Correctional Nurses provide the following services with approximately 1500 nursing employees: sick call, medication administration, chronic disease and specialty clinics, processing (for admission and placement), ambulatory/emergency care, triage, medical observation beds, infirmary, inpatient and outpatient medical and mental health care, residential mental health, women's health care and long-term care.

We are proud to have two new facilities in Wake County which provide dialysis, chemotherapy, x-ray and surgical services in addition to the above.
